this deeply insightful ethnography explores the healing power of caring and intimacy in a small closely bonded apostolic congregation during botswana s hiv aids pandemic death in a church of life paints a vivid picture of how members of the baitshepi church make strenuous efforts to sustain loving relationships amid widespread illness and death over the course of long term fieldwork frederick klaitz discovered baitshepi s distinctly maternal ethos and the spiritual kinship embodied in the church's nurturing fellowship practice. It shows that for Batsheba members, Christian faith is a form of moral passion that counters practices of divination and witchcraft with redemptive hymn singing, prayer, and the use of therapeutic substances. An online audio annex makes available examples of the church members' preaching and song.

Originally published in 1960, this book is a study of religion among the Tlhapeng, a rural Bantu society who were the first among the Tswana tribes to come into contact with Europeans. The religious organization of the Tlhapeng has been viewed within the framework of the people's social structure and economy. The book traces the declining influence of paganism before surveying the types of churches, their organization, activities, rituals, and revelations, with particular reference to Bantu separatist churches.
