essay from the year 2005 in the subject politics political systems general and comparisons grade 17 university of munster 7 entries in the bibliography language english abstract samuel p huntington was born in 1927 and is at the moment director of the john olin institute for strategic studies at the university of harvard he was the author of an article first published in the foreign affairs magazine which has according to russel oneal and cox 2000 p 584 turned into one of the most influential recent books on international relations this article was called the clash of civilizations and afterwards was extended in 1996 to his book called the clash of civilizations and the remaking of the world order this book was meant to be seen as a response to his highly polarising and provocative article mentioned above in it he tries to give answers to the questions which arose from his article and tries to clarify his standpoints and claims to underpin his thesis samuel p huntington has given new currency to the notion of a clash of civilizations his 1993 article on the topic in foreign affairs and his book following this article has gained a global audience huntington argues that the bipolar division of the world based on ideology is no longer relevant the world was entering a new period of intense conflict among civilizations he states it is my hypothesis that the fundamental source of conflict in this new world will not be primarily ideological or primarily economic the great divisions among humankind and the dominating source of conflict will be cultural nation states will remain them most powerful actors in world affairs but the principal conflicts of global politics will occur between nations and groups of different civilizations the clash of civilizations will dominate global politics the fault lines between civilizations will be the battle lines of the future huntington 1993 p 22 in trying to understand the causes essay from the year 2013 in the subject politics general and theories of international politics grade a webster university language english abstract this critical review examines samuel p huntington s 1993 article titled the clash of civilizations in this article huntington 1993a argues that in the wake of the fall of the berlin wall international relations would no longer be dominated by an ideological conflict as was witnessed during the cold war years between capitalism and communism nor would the next pattern of conflict be dominated by state to state tensions instead as huntington argues the world would witness a clash of civilizations between a western civilization and other major civilizations in particular an islamic civilization and a confusion civilization huntington makes valid arguments in terms of what international relations would not be dominated by however the argument that a clash of civilizations based on cultural differences between the west and other civilizations is a simplistic hypothesis born out of a realist cold war paradigm in 1993 samuel p huntington boldly asserted in the pages of foreign affairs the preeminent magazine on foreign policy and international relations that world politics was entering a new phase one in which cultural differences in religion history language and tradition were replacing cold war tensions and would soon become the world s fundamental points of conflict huntington s striking thesis elicited both criticism and praise from the media and political experts around the world more than a decade later the clash of civilizations continues to be a touchstone in global politics as writers passionately debate its merits and propose countertheories of their own this collection presents the original seminal essay followed by critical responses published in foreign affairs including the author's reply to his critics and contemporary additions to the enduring question of how to understand world conflict bei der Lektüre dieser Zusammenfassung werden Sie feststellen, dass die Konflikte von morgen ihre Wurzeln in kulturellen Unterschieden haben werden. Die aus dem kalten Krieg stammenden Konflikte zwischen ideologischen Blöcken sind tatsächlich dem Kampf der Kulturen gewichen. Sie werden auch lernen, dass die Geschichte der Menschen die Geschichte der Zivilisationen ist, dass die Welt multipolar und multizivilisatorisch geworden ist, dass Wirtschaft und Demografie eine wesentliche Rolle bei der Entwicklung der Zivilisationen spielen, dass die Welt eine echte Neuzusammensetzung um kulturelle Blöcke herum erfährt, dass die Zivilisationen ihren Einflussbereich in konzentrischen Kreisen ausdehnen, dass der westliche Universalismus, der im 18. Jahrhundert entstand, am Ende seiner Kräfte ist, der Westen ist unbestreitbar im Niedergang begriffen, zwischen der schillernden Entwicklung Chinas einer virtuellen Supermacht und der zunehmend radikalen Infragestellung seiner Werte durch den islamischen Fundamentalismus ist er nicht mehr der unbestrittene Leuchtturm der planetarischen Zivilisation. Die entscheidende Frage ist, ob in dieser neuen multipolaren Welt, in der das Erbe des kalten Krieges beseitigt ist, Zivilisationen mit unterschiedlichen Interessen friedlich koexistieren können oder ob sie im Gegenteil unweigerlich auf eine bewaffnete Konfrontation zusteuern. Ein Konflikt neuer Art und sicherlich mit einer bis heute nicht gekannten Gewalt. Dies ist die eigentliche Bedrohung des Weltfriedens.

Abstract: Indeed, if one reconsiders the devastating terrorist attacks of 9/11 and the war in Iraq, some might recognize evidence of the clash of civilisations occurring, pitting western and Islamic civilisations against each other. Rajendram 2002, p. 217. In order to underscore his rather pessimistic thesis, Huntington provides six causes of conflicts between civilisations: such as different views and values, the growing awareness of different civilisations among the people, the weakening of nation states and the replacement of national identity by religion. Huntington 1993, pp. 25-26. Furthermore, he argues that non-western countries will increasingly turn away from westernization due to an increasing indigenisation and that cultural characteristics and differences are less mutable and hence less easily compromised and resolved than political and economical ones huntington 1993 p 27 finally he points to the growth of economic regionalism contributing to the cohesiveness of various civilisational groups o hagan 1995 p 20 it is because of these reasons that the most important conflicts of the future will occur along the cultural fault lines separating these civilisations from one another huntington 1993 p 25 huntington not only provided a prediction model for future conflicts moreover he intends to introduce a new superior paradigm to the realist paradigm huntington 1996 p 34 there are only few theoretical models in the recent history of international relations that received such a plethora of multidisciplinary response as the clash of civilisations did the intention of this paper is not to give a comprehensive review of the arguments for or against the clash of civilisations nor will it refute the thesis of huntington rather this paper will analyze if the clash of civilisations as predicted by the relationship between western democracies and islam rarely entirely comfortable has in recent years become increasingly tense a growing immigrant population and worries about cultural and political assimilation exacerbated by terrorist attacks in the united states europe and around the world have provoked reams of commentary from all parts of the political spectrum a frustrating majority of it hyperbolic or even hysterical in the fear of barbarians the celebrated intellectual tzvetan todorov offers a corrective a reasoned and often highly personal analysis of the problem rooted in enlightenment values yet open to the claims of cultural difference drawing on history anthropology and politics and bringing to bear examples ranging from the murder of theo van gogh to the french ban on headscarves todorov argues that the west must overcome its fear of islam if it is to avoid betraying the values it claims to protect true freedom todorov explains requires us to strike a delicate balance between protecting and imposing cultural values acknowledging the primacy of the law and yet strenuously protecting minority views that do not interfere with its aims adding force to todorov s arguments is his own experience as a native of communist bulgaria his admiration of french civic identity and western freedom is vigorous but non nativist an inclusive vision whose very flexibility is its core strength the record of a penetrating mind grappling with a complicated multifaceted problem the fear of barbarians is a powerful important book a call not to arms but to thought this volume brings together a broad range of foreign affairs content to commemorate the twentieth anniversary of samuel huntington s classic article the clash of civilizations huntington s essay argued that culture rather than ideology or geopolitics would be the driving source of international conflict in the post cold war era it struck a nerve because it raised important and uncomfortable subjects in direct and powerful ways two decades on the jury is still hung with critics and defenders passionately arguing the piece s merits and demerits agreeing only on its enduring significance both as a marker of its times and a theoretical perspective that demands serious engagement we believe that readers should make up their own minds about how well his argument does and doesn t hold up so we ve pulled together the original article a broad range of responses from prominent commentators huntington s response to his critics a recent retrospective analysis by richard betts eulogies of huntington from stephen peter rosen eliot cohen zbigniew brzezinski and henry rosovsky and a video of a celebration of huntington s career featuring reminiscences from some of his students including cohen francis fukuyama and fareed zakaria an introduction by foreign affairs editor gideon rose sets the stage for the debates that follow expanding upon and engaging with the influential theories of francis fukuyama in the end of history and samuel huntington in the clash of civilisations this book is a major and controversial contribution to these key contemporary debates dieter senhaas examines some of the most significant political issues we face today how do societies cope with pluralization can tolerance be a successful solution what is the role of culture in recent conflicts which have been described as culturally induced and will twenty first century world politics sink into cultural conflicts on a biblical scale dieter senhaas explores these questions within the context of the main non western cultural areas chinese political philosophy islam buddhism and hinduism and goes on to reflect on the possibility of a constructive form of intercultural dialogue senhaas s distinctive and radical approach will be of great interest and topicality to all those working in politics international relations sociology cultural studies development studies religion and international political economy the clash of civilizations focuses on conflict and cooperation between and within states dealing with the clash is essential for a peaceful and harmonious world the clash of civilizations is a topic of great interest around the world and constitutes an important dimension of religion and international relations in the quarter century since huntington first aired his controversial framework inter civilizational clash and dialogue have become mainstream issues both in international relations and in many western countries domestic concerns the book examines a key question how does samuel huntington s clash of civilizations paradigm help explain current western governments responses to muslim migration and related security issues understanding relations between the west westerners and muslim majority societies muslims is impossible without being aware that right wing populist politicians in the west as well as some policy makers and commentators seem to view all muslims in a malign way this indicates a lack of willingness to make a distinction between on the one hand the mass of moderate ordinary and peaceful muslims and on the other hand a small minority of islamist extremists and even smaller number of islamist terrorists the result is a crucial topic of our times how do different civilizations coexist in a small and increasingly congested planet without conflict the chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the review of faith international affairs the end of the cold war which occurred early in the 1990s brought joy and freedom to millions but it posed a difficult question to the world s governments and to the academics who studied them how would world order be remade in an age no longer dominated by the competing ideologies of capitalism and communism samuel p huntington was one of the many political scientists who responded to this challenge by conceiving works that attempted to predict the ways in which conflict might play out in the 21st century and in the clash of civilizations he suggested that a new kind of conflict one centred on cultural identity would become the new focus of international relations huntington s theories greeted with scepticism when his book first appeared in the 1990s acquired new resonance after 9 11 the clash of civilizations is now one of the most widely set and read works of political theory in us universities huntington s theories have also had a measurable impact on american policy in large part this is a product of his problem solving skills clash is a monument to its author s ability to generate and evaluate alternative possibilities and to make sound decisions between them huntington s view that international politics after the cold war would be neither peaceful nor liberal nor cooperative ran counter to the predictions of almost all of his peers yet his position the product of an unusual ability to redefine an issue so as to see it in new ways has been largely vindicated by events ever since
