the purpose of this handbook originally published in 1984 was to provide a comprehensive review of current clinical descriptions research and theories of psychopathology descriptive psychopathology is a field that forms the foundation of clinical practice and research in clinical psychology psychiatry psychiatric social work psychiatric nursing and allied professions in mental health since the 1st edition the editors have devised and updated a handbook to cover both general and specific topics in psychopathology that would be useful to researchers practitioners and graduate or other advanced students in the mental health and behavioral medicine professions to implement this plan we have very carefully chosen colleagues whom we respect for their expertise in particular fields these authors include both clinicians and researchers who have outstanding national reputations as well as more junior behavioral scientists and clinicians who in our opinion will achieve similar recognition in the future the excellent chapters in this book lead us to believe that we have chosen wisely we would like to express our appreciation to these authors for their outstanding contributions and cooperation the revised edition of the classic reference on major adult psychological disorders adult psychopathology and diagnosis fourth edition offers essential material on the significant progress that has been made in understanding psychopathology assessment and remediation incorporating the nomenclature of the dsm iv this important reference presents an integration of empirical data and diagnostic criteria to demonstrate the basis for individual diagnoses and provide the opportunity to examine how these diagnoses are reached individual chapters introduce illustrative case material as well as clinical discussions addressing specific disorders diagnostic criteria major theories of etiology and issues of assessment and measurement this updated fourth edition includes new coverage of the psychopathological influence of family gender race and ethnicity a new chapter on dual diagnosis more updated illustrative case studies etiological considerations that include information on genetics adult psychopathology and diagnosis fourth edition is the most complete up to date textbook of its kind for graduate level courses in psychology counseling and social work as well as an excellent reference for psychologists psychotherapists counselors and other professionals in the field perhaps the most difficult milestone in a young clinician's career is the completion of the first interview for the typical trainee the endeavor is fraught with apprehension and with some degree of dread if the interview goes well there is considerable rejoicing if it goes badly much consternation results irrespective of the amount of preparation that has taken place before the interview the neophyte will justifiably remain nervous about this endeavor thus the first edition of diagnostic interviewing was devoted to providing a clear outline for the student in tackling a large variety of patients in the interview setting in consideration of the positive response to the first edition of diagnostic interviewing published in 1985 we and our editor at Plenum Press Eliot Werner decided that it was time to update the material however the basic premise that a book of this nature needs to encompass theoretical rationale clinical description and the pragmatics of how to once again has been followed and as in the case of the first edition this second edition does not represent the cat's being skinned in yet another way quite to the contrary we still believe that our students truly need to read the material covered herein with considerable care and once again the book is dedicated to them we are particularly concerned that in the clinical education of our graduate students interviewing has been given short shrift this landmark work is indispensable for anyone studying anxiety or seeking to deliver effective psychological and pharmacological treatments David H. Barlow comprehensively examines the phenomena of anxiety and panic their origins and the roles that each plays in normal and pathological functioning chapters coauthored by Barlow with other leading experts then outline what is known about the classification presentation etiology assessment and treatment of each of the DSM-IV anxiety disorders a definitive resource for researchers and clinicians this is also an ideal text for graduate level courses it has been almost twenty years since dsm iii created a major shift in psychiatric classification procedures and in diagnostic and treatment practice by introducing the multi axial system and for our patients specifically the axis ii personality disorders researchers and clinicians were forced to focus on many issues related to the field of personality and its disorders this meant an immense impetus for research both empirical and theoretical many recent developments are described in this book as reviews or as original articles this book also covers developments in europe as well as in north america important questions still remain unanswered such as what is the relationship between the different clusters a b c are we talking about dimensions categories or typologies what can be done for patients who have more than one personality disorder is a pro typical approach required consequently is a multiconceptual approach in treatment and research required the authors contribute to this discussion and provide guidelines for further thinking in research and treatment planning for clinicians it is of major importance to know whether the disorder can be influenced by treatment and whether permanent change is really possible a very important question is whether a person indeed has a personality disorder and how this diagnosis affects clinical practice presented here is comprehensive coverage of the most recent and significant advances in the basic research and clinical investigation of obsessive compulsive disorder a common disorder associated with intrusive obsessional thoughts or recurrent ritualistic behaviour divided into three parts part one of the book is devoted to the latest theories and conceptual systems it begins with an overview of anxiety and covers the psychoanalytic behavioral existential and cognitive theories as well as the experience of time in anxiety states also two chapters in this part deal with genetic and biochemical etiological factors
