this book turns our search for intimacy on its head suggesting that our way to creativity in love may be through idiocy the book takes its readers on a journey through the work of plato and melanie klein in theorizing the dynamics of intimacy while exploring some of the paradoxical aspects of love in works by fyodor dostoevsky and french filmmaker catherine breillat revisiting core concepts of how we think about relationships the book lays out a model for relational breakdown the idiot lovecycle in which we are constantly in the flux between seeing ourselves and seeing the other effecting close readings of literary philosophical and psychoanalytical sources the book draws on parallels between these fields of inquiry while tracing their shared intellectual genealogy suggesting that the tension between narcissus and cassandra with its inherent conflicts is also the space through which love emerges from intimacy displaying a sure sense of craft and a sharp facility for linking personal experience to the public realms of history and politics jehanne dubrow s red army red chronicles the coming of age of a child of american diplomats in eastern europe in the 1980s in the last moments of the cold war poland the setting for many of the poems lurches fitfully from a society characterized by hardship and deprivation toward a free market economy the contradictions and turmoil generated by this transition are the context in which an adolescent girl awakens to her sexuality with wit and subtlety dubrow makes apparent the parallels between the body and the body politic between the fulfillment of individual and collective desires
