War and Change in World Politics introduces the reader to an important new theory of international political change arguing that the fundamental nature of international relations has not changed over the millennia professor Gilpin uses history sociology and economic theory to identify the forces causing change in the world order the discussion focuses on the differential growth of power in the international system and the result of this unevenness a shift in the balance of power economic or military weakens the foundations of the existing system because those gaining power see the increasing benefits and the decreasing cost of changing the system the result maintains Gilpin is that actors seek to alter the system through territorial political or economic expansion until the marginal costs of continuing change are greater than the marginal benefits when states develop the power to change the system according to their interests they will strive to do so either by increasing economic efficiency and maximizing mutual gain or by redistributing wealth and power in their own favour this book provides a critical understanding of contemporary world politics by arguing that the neoliberal approach to international relations seduces many of us into investing our lives in projects of power and alienation these projects offer few options for emancipation consequently many feel they have little choice but to retaliate against violence with more violence the authors of this pioneering work articulate worldism as an alternative approach to world politics it intertwines non western and western traditions by drawing on marxist postcolonial feminist and critical security approaches with greek and chinese theories of politics broadly defined the authors contend that contemporary world politics cannot be understood outside the legacies of these multiple worlds including axes of power configured by gender race class and nationality which are themselves linked to earlier histories of colonizations and their contemporary formations with fiction and poetry as exploratory methods the authors build on their multiple worlds approach to consider different sites of world politics arguing that a truly emancipatory understanding of world politics requires more than just a shift in ways of
